

MY FUTURE job

I loved animals when I was little child. I always thought my future job would be a veterinarian. But in the last few years, I have been finding that looking at blood isn't good for me. Unfortunately, the veterinarian is not possible. That's why I think that my future job will be an animal caretaker.

A caretaker is much like a veterinarian. Being a caretaker means that you must provide the animals with enough food, water and clear place to live. You must also take care about their health and monitor their physical condition. Next part of the job is taking care of reproduction and monitoring the condition of newborn pups. You must also do light veterinary treatments.

Unfortunately, it's very physically and mentally demanding work. There is a lot of work around the animals, so much that there is not much time for a social life.

I have always had a different relationship with animals than others. That's why I think I could sacrifice my free time and maybe that's why I think this will be my future profession.
